A collection of former RAF homes have been refurbished and put on the market with a starting price of £150,000. The properties, formerly owned by the Ministry of Defence, will go on sale in RAF Scampton on Friday, September 15.

There are a wide variety of properties ranging from two, three and four-bedroom homes. Each house benefits from new floor coverings throughout, new front doors and, in a selection of homes, new kitchens. All properties also have two parking spaces.

The homes are located on Third Avenue, within the former RAF base. Private real estate owners Annington, who are bringing the Penrose Fields properties to market, say there has already been a lot of interest. Louise Saunders, sales and marketing manager at Annington, said: "Annington specialises in bringing former MOD homes back into use and providing much-needed homes around the country.

"Our approach to the property market is rooted in sustainability; rather than tearing homes down, we adapt original buildings for local communities and these homes in Scampton are no exception. We hope that Penrose Fields will enable residents to establish deeper connections with their neighbours in a beautiful rural setting."

Sales manager Charlotte DeCaux, from William H Brown, said: "These are well-built solid houses with good sized gardens, ideal for a wide spectrum of buyers. We've already had a lot of interest and would encourage anyone interested to get in touch and book an appointment to avoid missing out.

"There's no doubt that you get much more for your money here than 15 minutes away in Lincoln. The bedroom sizes and living areas are much more generous than you would get in the town. The Scampton schooling options are great, and the area has a rich history, making it an exciting project to work on.

"Scampton is a beautiful and desirable area with good investment yields, which has already acquired attention from local investors."
