

<https://www.thisisoxfordshire.co.uk/news/25278255.oxfordshire-raf-families-club-unveils-new-sign-donation/>

Oxfordshire: RAF families club unveils new sign after donation

1ST JULY MILITARY

The new sign at RAF Brize Norton Families Club (Image: Annington)

By Jacob Manuschka
Reporter

Share

0 Comments

A club for RAF families in Oxfordshire has unveiled a new sign following a £700 donation.

The contribution to RAF Brize Norton Families Club came from Annington, which is currently refurbishing 34 former Ministry of Defence homes at Norton Grove in Carterton.

The club, located nearby, supports the military community with recreational facilities and events, including guest speaker evenings, darts tournaments, fundraisers, and awards.

RAF Brize Norton Families Club is run by a team of volunteers and also includes a bar and children's playground.

The new sign at RAF Brize Norton Families Club (Image: Annington)

A member of the club said: "The families club has been a longstanding beacon of support for service personnel, contractors, civil servants, and their loved ones in the area.

"As we continue to foster a sense of community, it's important that our exterior reflects this too.

"Our signage was in urgent need of a refresh, and thanks to the donation from Annington, we are able to create a welcoming space both inside and out for personnel at RAF Brize Norton who are doing their part in serving our country."

Stacy Whitehead, marketing manager for Annington, added: "Community is an integral part of everyday life for Carterton locals, and these spaces provide essential amenities and services to support the wellbeing and social lives of people in the local area.

"As we refurbish former Ministry of Defence homes at Norton Grove, we are proud to support the club's fantastic work and volunteers by helping to breathe new life into the clubhouse."

MILITARY

Share

0 Comments